Younger Generation of Women Said to Look for Utility When Presents Are in Question.

One must mingle with the younger generation to comprehend the changing standards of domestic life. Those things once the heart's desire of women have not lost their charm, we are told. While the proverbial note to a man's heart has not changed its round, and good cooking is still the trademark of a desirable wife, yet anniversary expressions of a husband's love are said to be changing in form.

The new note is utility. This is exemplified by a story that comes to us from one who recently visited a young couple while they discussed their approaching anniversary. "I think I shall get Ruth a necklace," the young husband said. Ruth demurred. What then did she wish, was his query.

The suggestion of a diamond of mahogany furniture embellishment for "If you see" she said else."

A New Year's Resolution

Today I am starting to do what I think is the greatest work of my life. I hope I will be able to do it well. If all of us do it, it will mean not only doing the right thing by ourselves but the right thing by our country.

Right now is the time for all of us to get down to earth once more—to stop spending our money foolishly and wastefully—to do a full day's work—to produce all we can—and to help in every way our industries, which are the backbone of the progress and prosperity of our country.

"Safety First" is the only big plan to straighten out the tangles we get into every so often by forgetting to observe this simple rule. People will save their money more systematically if they can be shown that they will have the same chance to make more money as people who have more money than themselves.

Most people go along asking themselves questions like these: "What's the use of my saving 50 cents or $1, or $2, $3, $4, or $5 a week? What chance have I of every investing in good securities? How can I buy a bond or preferred stock for $10.00?"

The first hundred dollars is always the hardest to save, but if those who save it can be shown how to invest it in $10 sums and be a factor in the big enterprises of the country, saving will become a habit and a pleasure.

We can show you how to invest it in good securities.

We Wish You a Happy and Prosperous New Year
